Forum: Health in a Changing Climate

Our health depends on clean air, and water, fresh food and exercise. It is less known that we also need a stable, predictable climate.

Community health and wellbeing in a changing environment is extremely important. Warrnambool City Council with funding from the Department of Energy, Environment and Climate Action and in collaboration with Wannon Water, Barwon South West Climate Alliance, South West Healthcare, Deakin University and Barwon Health have come together to showcase, local, regional, state, and national activities in the climate and health space.

The Health in a Changing Climate forum will be held at the Lighthouse Theatre, Thursday 25 May 2023, commencing at 9.30am.

This all day forum is creating a lot of interest within the health and community service space along with local government, emergency management and the climate adaptation cohort.
