Gelt Involved

The Economic Benefits of Practice Change for Land & Livestock

Basalt to Bay Landcare Network (B2B) is partnering with agricultural landholders to realise the benefits of shelterbelt planting.

B2B is encouraging farmers to plant shelter belts to protect livestock and crops, improve soil health and biodiversity. Shelter belts have demonstrated increases in agricultural productivity – the Economic Benefits of Native Shelter Belts Report is available at www.basalttobay.org.au

More good news – planting shelter belts is also tax deductible!

Basalt to Bay Landcare Network has teamed up with the Australian Tax Office to produce a summary of the tax deductions available for establishing shelter belts on land used in a primary production business. The fact sheet is available at www.basalttobay.org.au/publications
